Harvest Of 1,000 Acres Of Ramie Started This Week

Harvest of ramie on the 1,000 acre ramie plantation owned by the Newport Industries, eight miles southeast of Canal Point, started this week.

The small machines are being employed in the harvest because the large modern mill with a capacity of harvesting 1,500 acres will not be completed before August.

Hand cutting crews are harvesting the new crop, which promises to become one of the Glades leading industries. But as soon as the mill is completed binders specially adapted to the harvesting of the plant will be used. Approximately 15 acres a day can be harvested with a binder whereas it would take a week for one man to cut an acre by hand, Mr. J. M. Dempsey, manager of the company, said.

The new mill will be entirely mechanized. It will strip the fiber wash and bale it ready for shipping to textile mills where it will be de-gummed and woven into cloth. The mill at Canal Point and also the one on the Belle Glade road are raw fiber processing mills and do not apply the finishing process to the fiber.

When the mill is completed it is estimated that a carload a day of the fiber will roll to textile mills. The plant will process approximately 300 tons of the green plants per day a total of 20,000 pounds of raw fiber. In addition to the processing of the fiber the Company will use the tops of the plant for food for cattle. In connection with the processing mill there is a food mill which will chop and dehydrate and bag the food for shipment. Mr. Dempsey said that two cars of the food will be produced daily. The company has invested in the ramie project, which is said to be one of the largest in the United States, a half million dollars and 6 years of research, Mr. Dempsey said.

Land preparation for the plantation started in March of 1944 and the following August 500 acres of ramie was planted. This acreage has been increased each year rounding out 1,000 acres this year.

If the project proves feasible, Mr. Dempsey said, the company plans to increase its plantation to 10,000 acres. If the acreage is thus increased an expansion will have to be made to the mill to provide adequate facilities for the harvest.

Small quantities of the fiber has been processed over a period of several months by the company. Mr. Dempsey said, totaling 20 or 25 thousand pounds shipped to textile mills.

Construction of the large mill was started last September but due to the shortage in building materials the harvest was ready before the mill was completed.

The ramie harvest starts in May and continues to October filling the gap between the vegetable harvest and providing employment for labor during the summer months here. Three crops of ramie can be harvested in a year. The plant requires 60 days for maturity from the first cutting. The acreage has to be replanted every seven years, according to Mr. Dempsey.

NOTICE OF MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Gamie and Fresh Water Fish Commission held at the Marion Hotel, Ocala, Florida, Thursday, July 11, 1946, 10 A. M.

Public Hearing On Proposed Federal Celery Marketing

Public hearings on a proposed federal marketing agreement for the Florida celery industry will be held in Florida by representatives of the Secretary of Agriculture, beginning at Sanford on June 27, it was announced today by the Florida Vegetable Committee.

The meeting places and dates set by the Secretary are: Sanford, Court House, June 27-28-29; Belle Glade, City Hall, July 1-2; Sarasota, Court House, July 3 and 5.

According to Perry Whitehurst, Sanford, celery director of the Florida Vegetable Committee, and one of the proponents of the proposed agreement, the purpose of the hearings is to permit growers and shippers of celery who favor or oppose federal regulations of celery marketing to offer testimony supporting their viewpoints.

"Florida produced more celery this year than the national market could absorb at a profit to the growers," Mr. Whitehurst said, "and many of us believe the only satisfactory way of adjusting shipments to market demand is through a federal marketing agreement which would put each grower and shipper on an equal basis."

He explained that the agreement could not become effective until it was signed by 51 percent of all celery shippers, and approved by two thirds of the growers participating in a referendum, either on a basis of number of growers or of the volume they ship. The proposed agreement, he said, would likely contain several methods of reducing the available supply in times when the committee created by the agreement demand necessary, including elimination by grade, by size, or by volume in the field. Mr. Whitehurst urged that growers and shippers attend the meeting in their respective area.

SPORTSMEN MEET TONIGHT

Tank Gardens

Fresh vegetables will be grown in huge tanks for U. S. troops in Japan. Because the soil in Japan is polluted, Americans there are forbidden to eat uncooked vegetables. The tank growing, thinks the army is the answer. Plans call for vast tanks covering an installation of some 40 acres where radishes, lettuce, spinach, beans, and other vegetables will be raised. When the project hits its stride, the army expects to be growing 800,000 portions of fresh vegetables daily.

Probably to be made of concrete, the tanks will contain water, plus sterile sand or volcanic ash to form a bedding for plant roots. The crops will be "fed" with plant food.

The Japanese are cooperating enthusiastically. They look forward to inheriting the project. Arable land in Japan is insufficient to grow needed food.—Wall Street Journal.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

(By Russell Kay)

Last week I joined the cavalcade of proud parents who journeyed to Tallahassee to witness the graduation of a daughter at the Florida State College for Women. It is events like this that bring realization that "old age" is creeping up.

Not having visited the capitol since the last legislative session, I found many changes in the community, many new homes, new business buildings and was surprised at the progress that has been made on the new South wing of the capitol and on new construction at the State College.

Accepting an invitation from my friend Newton Perry, I spent Sunday afternoon at Wakula Springs. The improvements that have taken place at this attractive resort were startling.

The Lodge, destroyed by fire several years ago, has been rebuilt. A beautiful sand beach now replaces the former swampy shore, grounds have been landscaped and much equipment added, but great care has been exercised to protect and preserve the wild natural beauty of this charming spot.

Although somewhat off the beaten path that tourists travel, Wakula Springs is nevertheless a popular pleasure resort and I was really surprised at the size of the crowd I found on my recent visit.

In fact, it was a capacity crowd from the standpoint of ability of present facilities to care for. The spacious dining room at the Lodge was hard pressed to care for the hundreds who wished to lunch there.

It was a case of wait your turn for a trip on the glass bottom boats or the Jungle Cruise but when your turn came you were well repaid for the waiting. The glass bottom boats handled with oars instead of a motor took me back to an earlier day when Silver Springs operated with such equipment. The skill with which these old darkies maneuver the cumbersome boats always fascinate me.

The underwater world that awaits one at Wakula Springs is much different than is found at Silver Springs but lacks nothing for genuine thrill and entertainment.

Star attraction is "Henry", the pole-vaulting fish, with a trained "gator" running him a close second. Unless you have actually seen "Henry" do his stuff you just can't believe such a thing possible.

I have seen everything from trained seals to trained fleas but never a creature like "Henry". He is not a captive, but lives in his own habitat in absolute freedom. He doesn't have to perform, if he doesn't want to and even the guides themselves cannot tell you why he does or why he doesn't leave the springs as do thousands of other fish.

As our boat approaches the spot where the pole rests on the bottom some 30 feet under water, the guide began talking to "Henry". Through the glass we could see "Henry", a sizeable black bass, motionless but for an occasional wobble of his fins, holding his position a short distance from the pole. The colored man kept urging the fish to jump the pole. The whole thing seemed ridiculous. Surely the fish couldn't hear him. Like a spoiled child being coaxed to perform, "Henry" seemed to sulk. I was confident that the act would prove a flop. Then the fool fish made a few false starts. He seemed to know that he was the center of attraction. He would swim up to the pole and stop, then swim away. He acted for all the world like a circus performer building up an act. The commands of the guide became firmer and more insistent. I figured he was wasting both his time and breath and then it happened. "Henry" vaulted the pole, not once, but continued to do it over and over again. It wasn't chance or an accident. It was a fish, of his own free will, in his own native element, doing an amazing trick for the entertainment of an amazed and incredulous audience. And believe, it or not, he does the trick hundreds of times a day. What makes him do it? Well, that is the $64 question. Don't take my word for it. Go see for yourself and if you can figure it out "Tell me."

But sharing the spotlight with "Henry" is an equally impressive performer. The old "Gator". He swims on the surface along side your boat and at the command of the guide, submerges beneath the boat, turns a cartwheel or two and comes to rest on the bottom. The guide calls it "sinking the Gator". And like the fish, the "gator" does his act over and over again as each new boatload of sightseers arrive. The whole thing is uncanny and unexplainable, but I saw it with my own eyes and seeing is believing. Can it be the "Henry" like Archie the coacroach has the soul of a human and transmigrated into a fish or, is he Theodore Pratt's "Mr. Limpet" without his glasses?—Anyhow, visit Wakula Springs and make his acquaintance. It is an experience you'll never forget.

Cinematic Chatter

By Malcolm Millar

Another smash feature meriting all this space in this column is "This Love of Ours," which comes to the Prince Theatre Tuesday-Wednesday, June 25-26, and promises to be on of the best dramas of this season.

Stars of the piece are Merle Oberon, Charles Korvin and Claude Rains, with Carl Esmond, Sue England, Jess Baker, Ralph Morgan, Fritz Leiber and Harry Davenport prominent as the featured supporting cast.

Here is the story: "Dr. Michel Touzac (Charles Korvin), noted pathologist, returns to his Pasadena home with Florence (Merle Oberon). He tells his household that he met and married Florence in Chicago while attending a medical gathering. Actually, as revealed in retrospect, he had married her twelve years previously in Paris when he was a medical student and Florence a music show entertainer known as Karin.

Touzac has abandoned her suddenly, taking with him their 2-year-old daughter, Suzette (Sue England), when he heard Florence was unfaithful. He has not encountered her again until, at a gay Chicago cafe, he saw her appearing as piano accompanist to Targel (Claude Rains), a rapid sketch artist.

Meanwhile, Suzette, believing her mother to be dead, has enshrined her memory. She immediately hates Florence and becomes bitter and unhappy. Targel's unexpected arrival at the Pasadena home and his deftness at sketching Suzette's mental image of her mother, make the child more understanding.

Suzette's own need for mother love causes her to embrace Florence. She forgives Florence and Touzac, and Florence decides to remain, with thought that eventually Suzette will be told that Florence and Karin are one and the same."

There you have the story. This film version was taken from the stage play of the same name which had a long and healthy run in some of the world's finest theatres.

There are those who are Oberon fans, and then again, there are those who are not. However, I will say this, if you attend the cinema on the nights of this screening you are going to see some of the cleverest acting that you have seen in a picture in some time. Now its up to you to decide whether you are going to take it in. See you at the movies—Mal

Where little children cry from hunger—

SOMEWHERE, halfway across the world, two little children cry bitterly from hunger. Children cannot understand the why of hunger—they know only the gnawing pain, the piteous weakness. A heartbroken mother listens helplessly.

Their only hope—and the hope of millions like them—is that Americans will not be complacent in a starving world . . . that you will share the abundance that is yours.

You are pledged to "Share a Meal Every Day," to help supply starving people with fat and wheat products. But the need for all foods is so desperate that you're asked to do more . . . to give money to buy food, or give food in tin cans, and to give generously!

Where the food you give will go. Contributions of canned foods will be distributed free in war-devastated countries on the basis of greatest need.

Why food must be in tin cans. Food in tin cans can be handled safely for distant shipments and travel over difficult roads.

Why the need is so desperate. The battles that brought us victory scourged most of the countries that fought as our allies. The worst drought in fifty years followed the war. Crops failed throughout Europe and Asia. 500,000,000 men, women, and children are hungry and starving.

WILL YOU GIVE THAT THEY MAY LIVE?

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO!

1. GIVE MONEY.

More food can be obtained for a given amount of money when it is bought centrally and in large quantities. Send cash, money order, or check to your local Emergency Food Collection Committee or to Lee Marshall, Executive Director, 100 Maiden Lane, New York 7, N. Y.

2. GIVE FOOD IN TIN CANS.

Leave at any Emergency Food Collection depot.

Urge your church, club, or organization to participate!

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"IS THE UNIVERSE, INCLUDING MAN, ENVELOPED BY ATOMIC FORCE?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 23.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord by wisdom hath founded the earth; by understanding hath he established the heavens" (Prov. 3:19).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God, thou art very great; thou art clothed with honour and majesty. Who laid the foundations of the earth, that it should not be removed for ever. O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches" (Ps. 104:1, 5, 24).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God creates and governs the universe, including man. The universe is filled with spiritual ideas, which He envelopes, and they are obedient to the Mind that makes them" (p. 285-5-8).

Denton - Carpenter

The wedding of Miss Dorothea Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Dan Carpenter and Vance Denton, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Denton of Pahokee, was solemnized Sunday, June 16th at 4 p. m. at the Pahokee Methodist Church.

The Rev. C. T. Howes, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. C. A. Moberg, pastor of the Baptist church, read the service of the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms, lilies and white asters and illuminated by lighted tapers in candelabra. The altar rail was entwined with fern and white blossoms and white satin bows marked the reserved pews. Mrs. H. C. Graham played the wedding music and Mrs. Ralph Grimes sang, "Because," and "At Dawning," accompanied by the Rev. Moberg.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin, with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline edged in silk lace, long sleeves pointed at the wrist and full skirt with silk lace forming a panel from the waist and outlining the long train. Ting satin covered buttons closed the bodice at the back to below the waistline. Her long English illusion veil was caught to a cornet of orange blossoms. She carried a heirloom handkerchief of hand knitted lace made by her great grandmother 65 years ago and a formal bouquet shaped like a fan with white stephanotis and tuberose centered with a canhamiana orchid. The bouquet was showered with white satin ribbons and stephanotis.

Mrs. Sydney K. Smith, Jr., of Palm Beach, matron of honor, was in heavenly blue taffeta and net, styled on old-fashioned lines with puffed sleeves, bertha and full skirt. Her matching taffeta and net head band was dotted with flowers like the bouquet she carried which was also shaped like a fan in shades of pink with pink carnations.

Carol Carpenter, sister of the bride, and junior bridesmaid was in pink taffeta and net styled on identical lines as that of the matron of honor and the bridesmaids gowns. Bridesmaids, Miss Evelyn Eldridge of Altha, Fla., and Miss Lois Byrd were in aqua taffeta and net and Miss Joy Padgett and Miss Mary Grace Denton of Belle Glade wore yellow taffeta and net, all carried contrasting fan bouquets.

Rebecca Ruth Grimes, tiny flower girl, wore a long pink taffeta and net dress styled on identical lines of the other gowns.

Edwin Rice was best man and ushers were; Milton Carpenter, brother of the bride, Slater Brewton, Kenneth Mock and Marvin Urwin.

The bride's mother wore a moss rose crepe with a corsage of yellow and Talisman roses. Mrs. V. C. Denton, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue and white print crepe and a corsage of white shattered carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter were hosts at a reception after the ceremony which was given at the Woman's Club. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. C. A. Shive, grandmother of the bride, served the cake and Mrs. John A.

Dulany presided at the punch bowl. Miss Joy Lou Bailey of Belle Glade was in charge of the guest book. Others assisting were; Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Padgett and Mrs. Ralph Grimes.

The bride and groom left on a short wedding trip following the reception. They will be at home in Gainesville, Fla., where the bridegroom will continue his studies at the University of Florida. For traveling Mrs. Denton wore a navy blue and white crepe dress with a white feather hat and white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was an orchid.

Altar Presented In Honor Of Brother

An altar presented to the Pahokee Eastern Star Chapter by Mrs. Ruth Stein of Belle Glade in honor of her brother, Alvin Schlechter, was dedicated at an impressive service conducted at the Masonic Hall Thursday evening. Mrs. H. C. Graham, past grand instructor of district 18, was in charge of the service and was assisted by Mrs. Esther LeFils, worthy matron, Dennis Friend, worthy patron and Mrs. Jessie Barnes and Mrs. Hulett Denton. The worthy Patron presented a program on Father's Day and Flag Day.

Following the program a covered dish dinner was served with husbands of members and members of the Belle Glade Chapter invited guests. Approximately 35 attended.

TO GO ON VACATION

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Moberg and family will leave early Monday for a six weeks vacation. The first stop will be Pascagoula, Mississippi, where Rev. Moberg will conduct a revival with the East Side Baptist Church, Rev. A. L. Ott, pastor. Then to Ridgecrest, N. C. and points north.
